Society of American Military Engineers (SAME) – Chesapeake Post

Aberdeen, MD — The Chesapeake Post of the Society of American Military Engineers (SAME) presented two scholarship awards this year at their general membership luncheon meeting held at the Wetlands Golf Club on Tuesday, September 13, 2011. A scholarship of $1,200 each was awarded to both Benjamin Ensor and Curtis Randow. Benjamin is currently attending York College of PA and is studying mechanical engineering. Curtis is currently attending Frostburg State University and is also studying mechanical engineering.

Since the students were already away at school, a check for the scholarship awards was presented to their parents. Accepting for Benjamin was his mother, Tamara Shipe, pictured far left below. Accepting for Curtis was his father, Roy Randow, pictured far right below. Presenting the scholarship on behalf of the Education & Scholarship Committee was Stella Miller (front center in picture below), committee chair, and John V. Mettee III (back left in picture below), current president of the SAME - Chesapeake Post. Also pictured is County Executive David Craig who was the luncheon guest speaker who gave a briefing on the perspective on what BRAC has meant for the County.

The SAME-Chesapeake Post encourages and supports talented students in their pursuit of careers in engineering, architecture, project management, or physical sciences. Our scholarship recipients are selected by a merit-based approach. Students interested in our scholarship can obtain an application form from www.same-chesapeake.org. General requirements for the scholarship are specified on the “Scholarship Selection Criteria” sheet found in the application packet.
